

The original classic learning tool from RSVP Design Ltd's partners in the USA - Interel

Do you need a versatile, effective and absorbing team challenge to motivate your learners and build rapid team co-operation through effective communication, careful planning and strong leadership and coaching?

Interel, our partner organisation in the USA, has been developing and refining the original Electric Maze® for more than 30 years. Trainers and facilitators have used it successfully in team and management development all over the world.

This completely programmable device allows learning designers maximum flexibility in creating successful pathways through the Maze in order provide a safe environment to build skills and rehearse effective behaviours.

The Electric Maze® gives teams a powerful and exciting learning experience with little physical effort. The effects of change, performance improvement, leadership, competition and many other learning areas can be explored in a single, or series of increasingly demanding tasks using this activity.

By adding constraints such as working in silence or with restricted communication, or by increasing time or quality standards different aspects of teamwork, control and supervision can be explored.

The Electric Maze® is suitable for groups of 4 to 24, working indoors on the supplied 6' x 8' (183cm x 244cm) carpet. The activity comes with its own wheeled carrying case, 50"x14"x14" (127cm x 36cm x 36cm) containing all the required materials with a total weight of 60 lbs (27kgs).

By inserting or removing a pin on the battery powered control module, each square can be programmed to set off an audible alarm when stepped on, creating many possibilities for 'safe' paths.

Alonzo Johnson, Ph.D comments:

In 2005, I became a senior executive with the responsibility for talent management and organizational development globally, and for staffing across North America. As part of my talent management responsibility, I oversaw two company-specific leadership development programs.

By then, the Electric Maze® had become entrenched in my department and was our action learning device of choice. Needless to say, we used the Electric Maze® in our communication, problem solving and team building sessions, as well as leadership development for leaders in each program. The Electric Maze® is an excellent tool for helping leaders to understand the complexity of leadership.
