

Breakthrough Thinking

A fully designed and resourced, one-day experiential learning workshop

Are you interested in teaching and developing the skills of innovation, creative thinking and creative problem-solving? Then this could be the package for you!

Our very practical, fast-paced and interactive workshop has been developed and refined over several years and is now available for clients and consultants to deliver directly. At an attractive price, and with no on-going costs or fees, we are sure that you will want to add this workshop to your resource library.

RSVP Design have created for you a full-day (7 hour) workshop, with all the practical resources, full facilitation notes, a slide presentation and re-printable materials & delegate workbooks needed for a group of up to 16.

The materials supplied with this workshop design and full facilitation manual include:

- 1 x set of 8 laminated 'Optical Illusions' pictures (also on CD)
  - 1 x set of Seeing the Point toolbox activity
  - 8 x pairs of 'handcuff' ropes
  - 2 x packs of Innovation Images (48 cards per set)
  - 8 x sets of 'Coaching for Innovation' tasks and process questions
  - 8 x 'Mystery Objects' (4 pairs of 2 different objects)
  - 1 brief and list of 'Coin Sorter' materials
  - 1 x PowerPoint presentation of key points
- A Participant Workbook and other supporting materials are included on the CD supplied, for reproduction as required.

Key Objectives:

- To understand the difference between creativity and innovation
- To recognise the stages in an innovation process and the contributions that individuals make
- To practise a range of creative thinking techniques to generate new ideas
- To apply creative and innovative thinking principles in practical problem-solving
- To understand and use questioning techniques in coaching for innovation
- To use the techniques to work on real-life problems identified and selected by the group

Feedback:

One of our recent clients commented:

"Constructive Intervention have used a number of the tools available from RSVP Design over the years and have always found them engaging, fun and challenging. We recently invested in the Breakthrough Thinking workshop and toolset....really, really good, well thought through, well-executed and the trainer's notes are just brilliant. RSVP Design have surpassed themselves with this workshop and the kit."
